No Comments Received During the Public Comment Period

During the public comment period, EPA did not receive any comments on the draft permit.

Other Changes to the Permit

After issuing the draft permit for public comment, EPA identified several issues with the permit. The identification and explanation for changes made to the permit and statement of basis are included below.

- 1.) Permit, pages 2-44: The header on each page of the permit has been updated to include the issue date, effective date, and expiration date of the permit. There were no changes to any permit condition as a result of this change.
- 2.) Permit, Section IV: In Section IV of the permit, conditions (A), (G), (I), (J), (K), (L), (M), (O), and (V) contain only one requirement. In the draft permit, these conditions were numbered unnecessarily. In the final permit, the numbering has been removed from these conditions without affecting the language of each requirement.
- 3.) Minor formatting and typographical issues were corrected throughout the permit. There were no substantive changes to any permit condition as a result of these corrections.
- 4.) Permit page numbering may have changed as a result of these changes. No permit conditions were modified as a result of this change.
